GOOD WORDS FOR THE TIGER.

The Ferocious Animal Is a Necessity in India—Some of Its Uses. The tiger is not such a very great misfortune to the neighborhood where he happens to have fixed his abode. His chase gives pleasure, excitement and exercise to the many hard-worked officials, whose lives would be those of uninterrupted routine were it not for this recreation. It is also of great assistance to the district officials, according to Harper's Magazine, as it makes them much better acquainted with the people under their charge, and they get to know out-of-the-way places, which, but for this sport, they would never have visited. The tiger is a very necessary evil in India, and were it not for him deer and wild boar would increase to such numbers that the cultivation of the land would become an immense hardship and almost an impossibility. He keeps them within bounds and relieves the ryots from watching their fields by night in the unhealthy localities. We are accustomed in England to hear constant war preached against this animal for its total extermination, but this ought only to be in cases of the destructive cattle killer or man eater, and these ought to be got rid of at any cost. The villagers are always extremely careful of their good cattle, watching them well and keeping them grazing on the border of fields where they are working, and would be very sorry if the tiger were exterminated. Of course they themselves are often carried off by man eaters. But tigers of this class are luckily very scarce.

Tigers are still numerous in the state of Mysore, and panthers have often been killed in the city itself quite re-cently. I believe that in Mysore the argest tigers in India are to be found. Some have been killed quite lately measuring nearly ten feet six inches from the nose to the tip of the tail. There are two kept by the maharajah in the courtyard of his cattle stables that measure very little short of that.

HIS SHOT WAS A BULL'S EYE. But He Didn't Explain That He Painted the Target After Firing.

A New York broker, who is well known on the stock exchange for his proclivities as a practical joker, made considerable fun for some of his associates a few days ago. He is sojourning in the country at the present and dispensing hospitalities to a number of his comrades. He is rated among them as a particularly bad marksman, and so it was, says the New York Herald, that when he took numbers of them around back of the barn one morning and showed them a target painted on the back of the barn and a cred a valuable mare.

The noted brood mare Fanny H., damed the sand delegate, and morning and showed them a target rest by Edwin Forrest, and is consid-painted on the back of the barn and a cred a valuable mare.

CITY PARKS. Chicago Well Provided with Pres Beatton Grounds.

An American gentleman, writing to Garden and Forest from England, notes two things in particular which help the people there to get more for their money in the way of recreation than we do here. One of these is the enormous amount of common land so easily accessible from the great cities, and the other the fine roads for bicycling, a form of recreation in universal vogus. In his native city, Cincinnati, this gentleman remembers that it was almost impossible for the boys to have a game of baseball, and the few places then available are now covered with buildings. He says: "None of Cincipnati public parks are ever used for games, and I don't think many of our western cities allow such use of their parks. Here nearly all the parks have immense spaces reserved for cricket, tennis and the like, and the London vostries are continually acquiring new land for recreation purposes." Cincinnati is exceptionally backward among large western cities in providing proper park facilities, the charge of not permitting a sufficient use of the parks for games would certainly not hold against Chicago, where the people en-joy the parks to a remarkable extent

The noted brood mare Fanny H., builtet imbedded in the very center of the bull's-eye, the first inquiry was:

"Who fired the shot?"

"I fired it and from a distance of two hundred yards, too," was his earnest reply.

"Oh! rats! rats!"

"Come off, now."

"Oh rats! rats!"

"Come off, now."

"Oh rats! rats!"

"You could not hit the barn at that distance."

But he persisted in his assertion and finally suggested that perhaps some of his friends would like to bet on it. He got two bets, one for a dinner for the World's Fatr Rates.
